ASKNATURE: The Biomimicry Institute's AskNature.org is the world's leading resource for understanding nature's survival strategies and their potential to inspire sustainable human designs. It's the only tool that gathers the world's biological intelligence, organizes it by function, and presents it in non-technical language. Since its launch in 2008, AskNature has attracted more than 1.8 million students, educators, and professionals spanning the design, engineering, science, and business fields. These users include design challenge participants focused on structure and behavior, materials scientists exploring nano- and micro-scale protein synthesis, entrepreneurs thinking about relationships and whole systems, research biologists documenting new natural phenomena, and more. They all rely on AskNature to inspire innovation, conduct research, and teach biomimicry. In 2014, the AskNature team launched a site redesign, informed by focus groups, to create a more intuitive user experience. Many volunteers contributed to deepening biological content on the site and the team secured new content partnerships, including with National Geographic. AskNature was featured alongside Michelle Obama and Jewel in National Geographic's Great Nature Project collections and was invited to guest blog monthly for National Geographic's Education blog. DESIGN CHALLENGES AND EDUCATION PROGRAMS: STUDENT DESIGN CHALLENGES: For the last five years, the Biomimicry Institute has worked with university students around the world through the Biomimicry Student Design Challenge (BSDC) to encourage innovative thinking inspired by nature that addresses real world problems. In 2014, the BSDC, which is now morphing into the Biomimicry Global Design Challenge to allow for independent professionals to enter, was focused on transportation. Over 200 teams from 22 countries registered, and over 100 submitted entries. Teams from McGill University (Canada) and the Universidad Autónoma de Yucatán (Mexico) tied for first place. The Canadian team's design uses air instead of water to regulate buoyancy, addressing problems with invasive species in the ballast water of trans-ocean cargo ships. The Mexican team's design is a novel human-powered vehicle that carries cargo and was inspired by the mechanics of motion in millipedes and snakes. One of the prior year's finalists for a water-themed SDC, a team from Artesis University College in Antwerp, was also named a finalist in the Global Social Venture Competition for its evaporative cooler inspired by the honeybee and designed to preserve fresh produce. Design Challenge Report: In response to a funder request, the Institute commissioned a

BIOMIMICRY GLOBAL NETWORK: The Biomimicry Global Network (BGN) is a network of networks that include regional and professional networks. Regional Networks host biomimicry activities catalyzed by individual champions and collaborative core groups organized around geographic location. Examples of projects include introducing biomimicry to local schools, creating biomimicry business incubators, and applying biomimicry to architectural and planning projects. Regional networks are independent-not legally affiliated with the Institute or each other. The Institute collaborates with these networks to create structures and systems that help spread biomimicry and catalyze its application. The Biomimicry Education Network (BEN) is the first professional biomimicry network. Members include educators who work with youth, university students, and informal student groups. The BEN website provides resources to help educators bring biomimicry into the classroom and facilitates the exchange of ideas and best practices. Biomimicry Fellows are educators within the BEN who are extensively trained in biomimicry and committed to bringing biomimicry to their respective institutions. University affiliates within this network have committed to prepare

Part V Supplemental Information

Provide additional information for responses to questions on Schedule L (see instructions).

Schedule L, Part II - Biomimicry Group Inc. (BGI) is a Delaware C Corporation with majority ownership by Janine Benyus, The Biomimicry Institute's (TBI) founder, current non-voting board of director, and former board president. TBI's and BGI's missions are uniquely aligned, therefore, in 2010, BGI and TBI entered into a Services Agreement to better meet TBI's educational objectives, further its exempt activities, and fulfill its broader mission to naturalize biomimicry in the culture by promoting the transfer of ideas, designs, and strategies from biology to sustainable human systems design.

Schedule L, Part IV - The Biomimicry Institute (TBI) shares resources and common costs in a mutually beneficial agreement with the Biomimicry Group (BGI). BGI is a for-profit enterprise whose majority shareholder is TBI's founder, a non-voting board member of TBI and former board president of TBI. A resource sharing agreement was executed in June of 2013. Under this agreement TBI became the employer of its core staff, but shares facilities, equipment and overhead costs with BGI. Under the agreements, the common costs and shared employees are allocated to each entity based on the actual costs incurred based on hours worked, square footage, or other basis that is most appropriate for the costs to be allocated. TBI has also executed a licensing agreement with BGI that allows BGI to license intellectual property owned by TBI at fair market value. BGI must pay TBI five percent of gross revenues received by BGI from the sale of products and services that directly use a material portion of the licensed materials.

Form 990, Part I, Line 6 - The Biomimicry Institute is grateful for its faithful volunteers who dedicated over 800 hours to our organization helping enhance our AskNature content, organizing our 2014 Global Network Summit, and furthering our Biomimicry Design Challenge.

Form 990, Part VI, Section B, Line 11b - 11.a. The following is the official Biomimicry Institute 990 policy included as part of its Board of Director's governance policies: The Biomimicry Institute's (TBI) senior management is responsible for the timely preparation of Form 990. b. The completed Form 990 will be provided to the Finance Committee of the Board of Directors sufficiently in advance of the filing deadline to enable a comprehensive and careful review by all members of the committee. Questions and concerns of the Finance Committee members will be addressed by TBI's Financial Officer and incorporated into the Form 990 as appropriate. c. All members of the Board of Directors will be invited to view the completed Form 990 in advance of the filing deadline. Questions and concerns of the board will be addressed by TBI's Financial Officer and incorporated into the Form 990 as appropriate. d. After all of the input from the Board of Directors and Finance Committee has been appropriately addressed, senior management of TBI will file the final Form 990 as required.

Form 990, Part VI, Section B, Line 12c - According to the Biomimicry Institute's (TBI) Conflict of Interest policy each director, principal officer and member of a committee with governing board-delegated powers shall annually sign a statement which affirms such person: a. has received a copy of the conflict of interest policy; b. Has read and understands the policy; c. Has agreed to comply with the policy; and d. Understands TBI is charitable and in order to maintain its federal tax exemption it must engage primarily in activities which accomplish one or more of its tax-exempt purposes. In addition, our policy calls for periodic reviews to ensure TBI operates in a manner consistent with its charitable purposes and does not engage in activities that could jeopardize its tax-exempt status. The periodic reviews shall, at a minimum, include the following subjects: a. Whether compensation arrangements and benefits are reasonable based on competent survey information, and the result of arm's length bargaining; b. Whether partnerships, joint ventures, and reasonable investment or payments for goods and services, further charitable purposes and do not result in inurement, impermissible private benefit or in an excess benefit transaction.

Form 990, Part VI, Section B, Line 15 - In 2012, a committee of TBI's Board of Directors reviewed and recommended the compensation for the Executive Director. The committee used data from the 2011 Guidestar Nonprofit Compensation Report. In addition, the board committee comprised their own data from like-minded organizations and positions. The current Executive Director's salary was based off that salary range and was, according to TBI policy, board approved. 15.b. During the annual budgeting process, the Executive Director reviews the compensation for each staff member leased from the Biomimicry Group, Inc. (BGI) who is expected to work on any TBI projects in the coming budget cycle. That review incorporates the Executive Director's judgement of the skills, education, and experience needed to accomplish TBI projects. The Executive Director also compares the salary rates with third party pay scale data. The result of this review is included as part of the budget and narrative provided to the Board of Directors for approval.

Form 990, Part VI, Section C, Line 19 - Governing documents, policies and financial statements are made available to the public upon request. The 990 and audited financial statements are also available on our website.

and wholly insufficient. The strategies we've relied on to provide food, water, energy, shelter, and comfort to a growing population are now seen as compounding rather than solving the problems. Biomimicry is a new science that studies nature's best ideas, abstracts the deep design principles, and then emulates these designs and processes to solve human problems. Biomimicry is a turnaround strategy for our species, a way for humans to fit in and flourish on this planet by emulating life's 3.8 billion years of brilliant designs and strategies.

of the best design ideas of the decade" by FastCompany and in 2014, gained recognition as a Semi-Finalist (top 20 of 450 entries) in the Fuller Challenge, a prestigious annual competition named "Socially-Responsible Design's Highest Award."

Description

report to quantitatively evaluate the impact of its Biomimicry Student Design Challenge (BSDC). This report estimated that a total of approximately 2,500 people participated across the three years, representing a range of motivations including those personally interested in biomimetic careers and others required to participate as part of a class assignment. Surveys and interviews of past BSDC participants (the latter primarily respondents who had participated in the challenge one to two years prior) indicated that insufficient time had elapsed to evolve submissions beyond the BSDC design concepts. The Biomimicry Institute is now evolving its programs to demonstrate the tangible effects of biomimicry practice. It is leveraging relationships with businesses and universities, and expanding its Design Challenges and AskNature.org (a key tool for challenge participants) into a vehicle for solving immediate sustainability problems. The best ideas emerging from these Design Challenges will be entered into a business accelerator process; the Institute will connect winners to its partners-such as business incubators, funders, and mentors-to help them launch successful ventures. The goal is to enable a pipeline of market-based, biomimetic products and services. Other Education Efforts: In addition to running a global Student Design Challenge, the Institute provided content, contacts, and resources to help universities and other public-private partnership organizations host their own challenges. One such partner was the Ellen MacArthur Foundation's Disruptive Innovation Festival, which inspired thousands of online participants. Also in 2014, the Institute partnered with UC Berkeley Center for Green Chemistry for a second year, this time in partnership with Seventh Generation and Beauty Counter, to use biomimicry to identify alternatives to preservatives in personal care goods. The results are published on AskNature.

Third Program Service Accomplishments Description

Description

students to graduate with a certificate or a minor, major, or advanced degree in biomimicry, and/or partner with the Institute on corporate design challenges or similar semester- or year-long projects. The Biomimicry Network Leaders Community (BNLC) is a peer-based learning and action network formed to share strategies and work collaboratively on projects that will grow and nourish all types of biomimicry networks. Their shared purpose is to increase knowledge of biomimicry and catalyze its application. Members of the BNLC are selected by their regional and professional networks to represent their networks at the global level. In 2014, the Biomimicry Institute was granted funding to develop a strategic foundation and supporting infrastructure to nourish the existing networks and enable the growth of the Biomimicry Global Network. To this end, the Institute launched a strategic planning process with a Global Network Core Group comprised of five representatives from the 24 regional networks. Together with the Institute, this group is advancing the design of network infrastructure by gathering emerging practices and strategies, and creating and communicating these with guidelines and policies to support the network leader community as a whole. In November 2014, the Institute hosted the second annual Biomimicry Global Network Leaders Conference, designed to collaboratively advance this plan into action by establishing a shared vision for spreading biomimicry. This year, the focus is on building the infrastructure needed to do this work. In 2014, BGN accomplishments included increasing the number of collaborating networks from 12 to 25 (with 15 other regions interested in joining); creating a shared communication and learning platform for regional network leaders to actively collaborate; and prototyping a credit exchange system to encourage more value flow in the network. With the addition of a new network in China, an Institute representative delivered six biomimicry lectures at Tongji University; participated in a biomimicry panel at a conference; and co-led a two-day field trip to TianMuShan Biosphere Reserve.

Part VII Supplemental Information

Provide additional information for responses to questions on Schedule R (see instructions).

Schedule R, Part IV - The Biomimicry Institute (TBI) shares resources and common costs in a mutually beneficial agreement with the Biomimicry Group, Inc. (BGI). BGI is a for-profit social enterprise whose majority shareholder is TBI's founder and current non-voting Board Member. TBI shares facilities, equipment, and overhead costs. Under the agreements, common costs and shared employees are allocated to each entity based on the actual costs incurred based on hours worked, square footage, or other basis that is most appropriate for the costs to be allocated. TBI has also executed a licensing agreement with BGI that allows BGI to license intellectual property owned by TBI at fair market value. BGI must pay TBI 5 percent of gross revenues received by BGI from the sale of products and services that directly use a material portion of the licensed materials.

Schedule R, Part V, Line 1d - Part V, Line 1d., 1e., 1j., 1k., 1m., 1p., and 1.q: Although TBI did have the above mentioned transactions with a related organization, all the amounts are well below the reporting limits therefore no explanation is required. Schedule R, Part V, Line 1l - According to the TBI - BGI Services Agreement, The Biomimicry Institute provided professional programmatic and administrative services to the Biomimicry Group, Inc. The Biomimicry Group, Inc. pays cost reimbursement for services, which is equal to FMV, calculated according to the Services Agreement Schedule.
